Support for businesses

Use social media, your website, and your shop window to explain your reopening plans and procedures. Use the #ShopSafeShopLocal when posting information relating to your business online.

Customers often look online before visiting your premises and letting them know how you are addressing health and safety concerns will boost their confidence and encourage their custom.

Tell your customers changes you have made (such as changes to opening hours, queuing procedures, new ways of serving your customers etc.)

Register to Order Coronavirus Tests for your Employees

Business owners can sign up for free lateral flow testing to protect your staff and your business.

Lateral flow testing is a fast and simple way to test people who do not have symptoms of COVID-19, but who may still be spreading the virus.

Businesses can apply to receive testing kits to use on site for those employees that cannot work from home. To apply for the kits visit www.gov.uk/get-workplace-coronavirus-tests

Legionella

Important information: For all organisations that rely on a safe water supply to undertake their business activities - Public Health England says there may be a potential health risk of Legionella in water systems that haven't been used during a period of business closure.

What is the risk? As businesses start to re-open, it is important to ensure that public health continues to be protected. A potential health risk relates to Legionella in water systems that have not been used during the restrictions period. Buildings should have in place a risk assessment and a Water Safety Plan, but dormant water systems will result in bacterial growth, especially in warmer weather.

Legionella, which is naturally present in water systems, causes Legionnaires' disease which is fatal in 10% of cases. This can be avoided by following appropriate advice.

Who needs to take action?

• dental practices; • hairdressers; • hotels; • gyms ; • sports clubs; • office buildings (especially those with shower facilities); • any organisation that has a water supply and is currently shut down

What action will reduce the risk? Regular flushing of the premises water system throughout the restrictions period is required. However, all aspects of the water management system need to be reviewed before re-opening the business, and necessary action will be dependent on the complexities of the system. This may be done by a combination of workers employed by the organisation if they have the necessary skills and knowledge. However, if a water system requires disinfection then a water consultant will be needed.
